CHAPTER 23

Marjorie's visitor knock at the door. Thinking it was a nurse, I called "Come in," and in walked James.

"As I started, he shut the door and then, with a great air of secrecy, said:

"See! I want to speak to you. Most important. . . For you, that is."

"Will you please go out of my room instantly," I said.

"Say don't be silly," he said. "I've only come here for your good. Can't I speak to you?"

"It seemed to me that there could be no harm in hearing what he had to say. So I just stared at him and made no reply whatever."

"See here, he went on hurriedly. "I want to speak to you in confidence. That Aunt of yours—Maud. . . She doesn't want you to get well at all. She's hoping your illness will end before you're 21. Then your uncle comes into your money instead of you—and Maud'll get the handling of that big wad."

"Now we do just occasionally lose a case here, though very few, for the doctor's a wonder. And I'm afraid you'll be one of the cases we shall lose. See what I mean?"

"I sat perfectly silent and still, and stared at the creature."

"Now you want to get away from here," he went on, "and you can't do it. Not without my help. Any letters you write may, or may not, be put in the bag when the doctor clears the post-box in the hall. The doctor's such a careful man. He'd hate a letter to go astray. And if you got a message to your uncle—which you couldn't—do you think Maud would let him start anything? She'd tell him that what you wrote was the best proof that you'd gone potty, as the doctor feared."

"I felt myself going faint, but I thought it would be best to hear him out. I might learn something new."

"You want to get clear away from here, right now," he went on, "and I'm the only one that can get you out. The gatekeeper would let you pass if I was with you. But you couldn't get out of here in a hundred years, otherwise."

"This isn't any prison," he grinned, "but the doctor can't have any of his convalescents clearing out before they're as well as they think they are. He's responsible to those who brought them here, and don't forget it was Maud brought you here—with her husband's knowledge and consent."

"I think my absolute silence made him a little uncomfortable."

"See here, I'm your friend," he informed me once again. "I don't want a thing except to help you. And you know why? I'll tell you, though you've surely guessed it. I'm in love with you."

"I shuddered and seem to feel myself go pale."

"Sure thing, I am," he continued. "Why, I fell in love with you the first moment I set eyes on you. Each time I see you, I feel deeper in love—till now I can't live without you. I certainly can't."

"An" see here, you can't live without me, either—for you won't get any better here. And if I can't live without you, and you can't live without me—why . . . there it is."

"Now, I don't s'pose you've fallen in love with me like I have with you, but you'd rather leave here and marry me, than stop here and—not get well, wouldn't you?"

"What about it?"

"I still remained silent, partly because I couldn't speak."

"And look here," he added, with a hint of annoyance in his tone. "Don't you think that anybody else but me can get you out. Don't you think that Maud is going to help

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary Reveals to Maud That Harry Also Suspects Charles Owens.

"DO YOU mean," I said slowly, when I had recovered my first astonishment at Mary's words, "that Mr. Underwood told you he thought Charles Owen had married with Marion on his mind?"

"I mean exactly that," my surprised auntie. Mary replied affectionately. "It seems he overheard Carolyn teasing Marion one day during the Christmas vacation—oh, he didn't mean to eavesdrop, of course, being Mr. Underwood, but I don't imagine he stopped his ears up with cotton and went suddenly away from there after he heard the first words. He kept his eyes and his ears open after that, and made up his mind as to the scheme Foy Charlie had in his mind, and he asked me to use my ears and eyes to supplement his, with the general idea of my keeping tab on Marion, and reporting to him if anything happened I thought he ought to know."

"Have you—has there?" I began lamely.

"Not a tangible thing—so far," she replied. "Nothing you could put your finger on. You see Marion is so taken up with Ronald that Uncle Charlie has to work overtime to get a word in edgewise with her. But you can see, can't you, even with the insulation Ronald gives her that there's need of another shock absorber in Marion's neighborhood, and I'm so glad that you could put me in a used car. Hello! That's a thought."

She put her first finger to her forehead in burlesque meditation, then looked up at me with a grin. "Isn't there something in the Bible or Shakespeare or the almanac about the saw that cuts something or other with both edges?"

"I'm afraid I don't remember the adage," I told her laughingly. "Perhaps if you'd explain your meaning."

"Sorry! Can't do that," she said with a decision that seemed odd in conjunction with the levity of her manner. "You see, I don't know if the thought will ever materialize. But if it does, I'll promise that you

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

FRIDAY and tomorrow is Saturday, and it was very warmish when me and Jubilee had woke up and I had let him down out of the window and had put on my short britches and went down. I stepped on the cat's tail when I went out of the back door. She looked like she had put in the night fighting with other neighborhood cats for the left overs of the fish my grandfather had caught and I had cleaned, and she was laying there with her stomach full and resting and feeling happy till I came along, but she wasn't so very happy when I stepped on her tail, and she went away from there like she was going somewhere, but I made Jubilee so happy with his tongue out. He ain't got enough tail for anyone to step on and that ought to be a lesson to the cat.

Someone Frenchy's father used to know gent Frenchy a cowboy rope and he brag it with him, so that when I had milked the dummed brutes and fed my face I went out and played with the bunch with the rope and we made a loop in one end and roped each other. It was the hardest and stiffest rope I ever saw. I threw it over a limb of our tree and put the loop under my arms and pulled the other end till I was up to the branch and then I held it of it and clump up in the tree and flang the loop end down for the others, and Feeble got hold of it and said she was coming up. So instead of putting the loop around like I did she stood in with both feet and before I had time to tell her not to do it she gave the other end a pull, and her feet up and she sat down on the hard sidewalk so hard that her eyes went around like pinwheels. Then I told the Lost Bag of Tripe to hang onto the loop and I would jump off the limb hanging onto the other end and my weight would pull him up, but just as I jumped he got scared and let go, and I hit the ground and sat down harder than Feeble had done. I thought the spine of my back was busted. Everyone looked scared, and Feeble looked cross-eyed at me and said, "And you laughed at me!" Then she said if I had her brains to go along with mine I would be almost half-witted. I was going to show the Lost Bag of Tripe that he couldn't monkey with me and get away with it, but he started to go to school, and I didn't feel like running. Frenchy took his rope to school and the teacher took it away from him because he tried to lasso Mushy's wife and made her mad. She gave it back when school let out, and he cut it up and gave it to Yonnie and Maggie and Feeble for jumping ropes. Girls like to jump ropes. They are silly about other things, too. We all went around to Gimmie's house but her and her mother have gone away somewhere, there were a lot of papers in the yard the boy had delivered.

shall be the first one to know about it. Will that do?"

"It will have to, I imagine," I told her laughing. "But, putting up my hand with a warning gesture, half playful, half serious, I remember your falling and take a second thought before you set on the first."

"I don't care for second thoughts," she crowed in an atrocious parody. "But they'll be my weakness now."

"Let us hope so," I said, returning the wave of the hand she gave me as I went out of the door.

I went back to the veranda slowly, puzzled as much by Mary's manner, as by her cryptic words. I knew that some plan for foiling Charles Owen's scheme was stirring in her versatile brain, something which the words "shock absorber" had quickened into life.

But, knowing Mary's powers of secretiveness, I gave up the problem with a shrug of my shoulders, and went back to the veranda, where Harry Underwood and Lillian, one on either side of my small daughter, were waving their hands, and uttering the foolish little sounds with which people try to attract the attention of small babies. They stopped with ludicrous suddenness as I came through the open door, then Harry exclaimed with an air of infinite relief:

A Name Before Tomorrow

"Oh! it's only Ruby Pearl's mother," I thought it was Kattinko coming back. If she caught us going at this baby, she'd give us what for."

Again that unworthy irritation stirred in my heart and sharpened by voice unconsciously as I answered:

"Why do you call her that ridiculous name? You know it is only the idea of Junior and Rouerick promoted by Jerry Tiger, and that she will have a real name."

"When?" Mr. Underwood asked significantly.

"Before tomorrow," I promised, "I'll promise in return to drop 'Ruby Pearl' and 'Owd Violet' into the wastebasket as soon as I hear the real moniker you intend giving the kid. But until then I'm going to make them by theme song, if for no other reason than to prod you into doing your duty by this little lady. It's the crime of the century, leaving anything as adorable as this without a name."

He rose and bent from the waist in a low bow to my daughter.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK—There's comment that David Belasco, veteran showman, hasn't even frowned on the engagement of Helen Gahagan, one of his stars, to Melvin Douglas, her leading man. Broadway recalls that Mr. Belasco never forgave Mrs. Leslie Carter for getting married, and that Frances Starr said Leonore Ulric had other producers after their wedding. Belasco always held the public lost interest in a married favorite.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Jack Mitchell is 17, and a professional baseball pitcher. Not so much that? Jack is a girl! Moreover, she is assigned to pitch for the Chattanooga Lookouts in an exhibition game against the New York Yankees next week. Her ambition is to strike out Babe Ruth.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Mrs. George Washington Hamilton of Fulton is dead but her wedding cake ages on for posterity. It was "too pretty to cut" 64 years ago.

Now it is in the Missouri state museum.

PITTSBURGH—Mrs. Schumann-Heink, 70, would prefer to drop dead back stage working. "Why should I stop singing?" she asked. "I don't get tired. It's my life."

PARIS—Charlie Chaplin has cancelled an engagement to see the grand national at Aintree. "I feel that the mere sight of the horses going over the jumps will hurt every bone in my body," he explained after he had done some riding in a boar hunt.

compared the joy of being able to recognize and understand the language of birds with the thrill of a strike to a fisherman.

One of the greatest problems of the youth is what to do in spare moments, according to Harper, who urged club members to teach their sons the language of the outdoors and to become more conversant with nature themselves.

Every business, profession, art or vocation has its own particular language, and those who have this language are proud of their knowledge. Learn the language of nature and enjoy some of the most pleasant hours in life, Harper urged.

Yesterday's meeting was one of a series of joint meetings of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

OHIO NATURALIST
IS CLUB SPEAKER

A. V. Harper of Columbus
Urges Acquaintance with Outdoors.

The day of the hunter and fisherman is passing rapidly, A. V. Harper of Columbus, considered one of Ohio's outstanding naturalists, declared yesterday before a joint meeting of Marion Rotarians and Kiwanians in the Marion club. Ninety-one heard Harper's talk.

It is becoming and will continue to become increasingly difficult for the hunter and the fisherman to find game enough to make his sport interesting in Ohio, Harper said.

Harper urged his listeners to turn to the language of the outdoors for a new thrill from nature. He

SUFFERED
FOR 50 YEARS

If you suffer from constipation, read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. R. J. Foster, 108 Broadway, West Plains, Mo.

"I have been constipated for the last 50 years, taken all kinds of drugs with only momentary relief. I have been using your ALL-BRAN six weeks. It has given me permanent relief. I can heartily recommend it to be a certain remedy for constipation."

Eat this pleasant cereal and overcome constipation in a natural, safe way. Two tablespoons of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. In stubborn cases, serve with each meal. Do this and banish pills and drugs from your life.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to the diet. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A NEW CONTRIBUTION TO THE AMERICAN TABLE

Delicious cereal biscuits that supply 10 important mineral salts

GOOD news for mothers and children. Good news for business men who are tired and don't know why. Good news for thousands who are going through life with lowered vitality, not because they eat too little, but because they don't eat enough balanced foods.

Here is a delicious new cereal—a well-balanced food—extra rich in mineral salts and vitamins which so many people now fail to get in sufficient quantity to build real health.

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits are made of whole wheat—by a special process that guards practically all of its remarkable food value. Whole wheat shreds baked into delicious biscuits! Double toasted! You'll be delighted with their wonderful flavor and crispness.

These biscuits are rich in calcium, phosphorus and iron. Served with milk or cream, they are a well-rounded dish that will supply more than a third of the mineral salts your body needs each day.

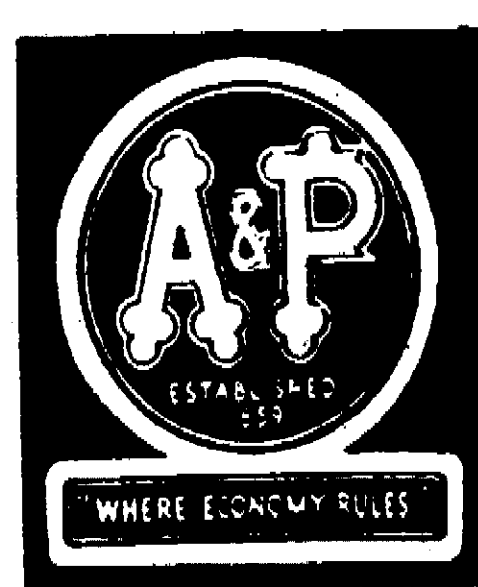

Begin eating Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit for breakfast. Convenient in size—just fit the bowl. Enjoy them for lunch, with fruits or honey added. Serve for the children's supper. Eat them at bedtime.

Think of the advantage. A high-nourishment cereal. Ready to eat. Certified for food value. Each time you eat Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit you get calcium and phosphorus for teeth and bones. Iron and copper for red blood. Chlorine for digestion. Vitamins for health... as well as many other important food elements.

Surely this can mean increased vitality—more healthful meals—for all your family. Order a red-and-green package from your grocer. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FIVE GAMES OPEN CAGE TOURNEY PLAY

TOMMY LOUGHRAN TO BATTLE GRIFFITHS IN TEN-ROUND CLASH

Winner of Chicago Fight Tonight Assured Future Bout with Sharkey.

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, March 27.—A match with Jack Sharkey assured the winner, Tommy Loughran, master ringman from Philadelphia, will engage the rough Gerald Ambrose Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., in a ten round battle at the Chicago stadium tonight.

The match is one of the outstanding heavyweight attractions of the indoor season, but despite its importance, there has been no general rush towards the box offices. Indications today were that the probable attendance would be 13,000, with gate receipts of $40,000. The reason for the apparent lack of interest was because Loughran ruled a firm 7 to 5 favorite to outbox Griffiths.

Loughran, most active of all heavyweights, has scored seven consecutive victories during the current indoor season, with his sharpshooting left hand. He has King Levinsky, Dick Daniels, Max Baer, and Ernie Schaaf among his recent victims. The smiling Philadelphia says he is in the best physical condition of his eleven years of ring activity and figures to enter the contest tonight weighing about 185 pounds, with Griffiths scaling 187.

Griffiths, knowing that Loughran is not a killing puncher, plans to wage a rushing battle, because he realizes the futility of attempting to outbox the Philadelphia. Griffiths is a stiff puncher if he chooses to be and he hopes to score a stunning upset.

The match will mark the second anniversary of the stadium's opening. Loughran's appearance in the windup of the birthday is significant because he was one of the principals when the $7,000,000 arena was opened two years ago.

Specs' Five Winner in Game with Harpater

Specs' five basketball team won another victory last night over the Harpater quintet on the Steamf Shovel gym floor, defeating the rural team 22 to 20. Brooks, forward was high scorer for both teams with 13 points.

Felcher, Harpater center, trailed with eight points.

The complete schedule of play for tonight follows: 7 p. m. West Mansfield vs. Green Camp; 7:45, D. L. Auld Jewellers vs. Y-Indus club; 8:30 p. m. Wile's Collegians vs. Little Gem A. C.; 9:15 Niles Kreegers vs. State Industrial Commission; 10 p. m. Wilson A. C. vs. St. Augustine.

The Shovel Y-Indus club set up two records last night in the first game of the tournament. However at least one of them may be surpassed before many more games. The Richmond team failed to score a field goal against the Marion five and the Y-Indus won by the widest margin of any of the games played last night.

The former record is likely to stand for the tournament but it would not be surprising to see the latter beaten before long.

Despite the fact the Y-Indus won easily last night it will probably have its hands full tonight eliminating the D. L. Auld of Columbus. The capital city five comes here with a good record in past games.

Tough Luck Dogs Path of Red Bird Pitcher

LAKELAND, Fla., March 27.—Baseball's champion hard luck athlete this spring appears to be Larry Winters, Columbus Red Birds pitcher.

First Larry arrived in camp suffering from a severe cold. Then he had a sore arm. Next he was hit in the ribs by a pitched ball and the result was a couple of fractured ribs, and now on top of this he was hit on the hand by a batted ball.

"I hope this is all," Larry confided to Manager Leibold.

COURT EVENT GETS OFF TO GOOD START

Y-Indus, Green Camp, Upper Sandusky, W. Mansfield Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity Are Winners.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

THE opening round of the first annual north central Ohio amateur basketball tournament got off to a flying start in The Star auditorium last night with 10 of the 29 tournament entries staging five well-played contests. Play in the tournament continued today starting at 1 p. m. Six games are booked for this afternoon with another half dozen on the list for tonight.

The Shovel Y-Indus club of Marion and the Richmond Independents clashed in the opening encounter of the five game schedule last night, the Marion city quintet emerging victor by the widest margin of the five games played. The final score was 24 to 4.

Results of the other games follow: West Mansfield Ramblers 21, Martel Independents 14; Green Camp Independents 18, Phi Kappa Psi fraternity of Ohio Wesleyan 23; Smart & Waddell of Marion 17; Upper Sandusky Ex-His 16, Kenton St. Johns 8.

Green Camp and Phi Tau Kappa of Bucyrus put on the closest played game of the five but honors for the best all around basketball go to the Smart & Waddell-Phi Kappa Psi battle. The latter game was bitterly fought although the fraternity team held the upper hand most of the way. Three of the varsity team of the Ohio Wesleyan, Gini-

TO RENEW RIVALRY
Ohio State Opens Baseball Campaign With Bishops.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—To the baseball team goes the honor of being the first Ohio State university sports squad to start the spring campaign. The Buckeye nine is now in training for the curtain-raiser against Ohio Wesleyan, one week from tomorrow.

Two days later, state is slated to take on the reserve team of the Columbus Red Birds at Neil park. In its game at Delaware next Saturday Ohio State will be continuing a rivalry that extends back to 1881, only one year after a baseball team was organized on the campus. In this stretch of years the Buckeyes have taken 41 decisions, lost 10, and tied two. Not since 1915 has an Ohio Wesleyan nine been able to win from Ohio State.

Training Camp Headlights

NEW ORLEANS — On Pinky Shoffner and Walter Miller rest the Cleveland Indians' hopes of producing a winning southpaw this summer. Shoffner, who has looked good in exhibition games, is being watched in particular. He has dropped his clouting of a year ago in favor of earnest work, and Billy Evans claims only Mose Grove has more stuff on the ball.

TAMPA — The Cincinnati Reds catching staff appears to be in first class condition again, Manager Dan Howley said today. Bob Abejerson, second member of the backstop corps, has recovered from a lame arm and will again take his turn behind the bat. Clyde Sukeforth will carry the burden this season.

LOS ANGELES — Bucky Harris is "quarterbacking" the Detroit Tigers by calling out numbers instead of titling his cap or stroking his chin to signal from the dugout this year. Spectators back of the Detroit bench can hear shouts of "44-28-33-hike." The other fellows never will get on to them, either, said the Detroit manager.

ST. PETERSBURG — Babe Ruth is nothing if not fair with his baseball enemies as well as friends. The House of David collection of bearded diamond warriors who furnished the opposition for the last Yankee exhibition game here this season appeared with a "re-cruit" shortstop Heller, who lacked the customary whiskers. The babe evened things up, however, by playing with a full set of false foliage.

JACKSONVILLE — Reports were in circulation today that Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder of the Phillies, is to be placed on the market unless he soon signs the contract offered by the club. The report lacked confirmation.

It is rumored that Branch Rick-ey, of the St. Louis Cardinals, had offered Chick Hafey, the bespectacled left fielder, two pitchers and $25,000 in cash for Klein, but that offer has been refused.

Klein is at his home in Indianapolis and has asserted that he will not sign unless he is given $14,500 for 1931. The Phillies are understood to have offered him $12,500.

TURNESA LEADS

New York Pro Has One Stroke Advantage in Tournament.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 27.—Joe Turnesa, handsome young New York pro, held a one stroke lead over his nearest rivals today after the first 36-holes of the north and south open golf tournament.

Turnesa added a 70, one under par, and a 72 in the two 18-hole rounds of yesterday for 142 better than any of the rest of the field of 132 could do, with $5,650 in prize money to drive them on.

Next were Bobby Cruickshank, the steady shooting Scot, and Wiffy Cox, who had 36 hole scores of 143. Cox had 69 for the first round.

Sixty-four had 158 scores or better to qualify for the last 36 holes today.

300,000 TO WITNESS CLASSIC IN ENGLAND

America Strongly Represented in Grand National Steeplechase Event at Aintree.

By The Associated Press.
LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 27.—Turford's most famous steeplechase, the Grand National, drew nearly 300,000 persons today to Aintree, on the outskirts of Liverpool.

The course has sixteen jumps, all but two of which must be taken twice. Most notorious and most treacherous of them all is the No. 6 (and 22), Becher's brook. This is a thorn fence, five feet high, three feet three inches natural deep brook on the far side. It takes its name from Captain Becher, who was thrown there in the first running of the Grand National in 1839.

The "canal turn" No. 8 and 24 is another dangerous jump similar to Becher's brook except that the brook is on the take-off side.

M'CANN ON BENCH
LAKELAND, Fla., March 27.—The condition of Emmett McCann, the Columbus Red Birds star first baseman, now is worrying Manager Leibold. McCann has been suffering from an attack of the flu and has been confined to the hotel for several days. With McCann on the bench the Red Birds' first base problems will be serious.

Not so to the betting fraternity. With them, Francis has been established a 7 to 5 favorite, chiefly because of his recent excellent showing against Eddie Shea of Chicago. Francis blessed with an amazing supply of stamina, piled into Shea from the first round to the last and easily pounded out a decision.

Then a bantamweight, La Barba took a neat lacing in 15 rounds in that first clash with Francis overseas but the far westerner is confident he can reverse the verdict tonight.

Dickie Kerr, diminutive pitcher formerly with the Chicago White Sox, who has been playing and managing semi-pro baseball, will retire from playing this year. He is 37 years old.

Coast Featherweight Hopes To Avenge Former Beating by Italian.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A feud that began in Paris nearly two years ago will be renewed tonight in Madison Square garden when Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles featherweight contender, battles durable Kid Francis of Italy over the ten round route.

Then a bantamweight, La Barba took a neat lacing in 15 rounds in that first clash with Francis overseas but the far westerner is confident he can reverse the verdict tonight.

Not so to the betting fraternity. With them, Francis has been established a 7 to 5 favorite, chiefly because of his recent excellent showing against Eddie Shea of Chicago. Francis blessed with an amazing supply of stamina, piled into Shea from the first round to the last and easily pounded out a decision.

The chorus will be augmented by the Epworth Sunday school orchestra under the direction of William Dowler, assisted by Upper Sandusky musicians. Mendelssohn composed "The Elijah."

The Epworth orchestra will present a half hour program at 7 p. m. preceding the oratorio, which will be sung in two parts.

NURSE SLAIN ON AUTO RIDE

Vernie Russell (left), 22-year-old student nurse at the Truesdale Hospital, Providence, R. I., whose body was found in the bushes beside a lonely road. She had been attacked and beaten to death, police believe, by the driver of the car she was last seen entering. Elliot Hathaway (right), son of State Representative Louis E. Hathaway of Fall River, Mass., is held on a warrant charging him with murder of the young nurse. He surrendered yesterday to authorities after police throughout two states had launched a search for him. He denies killing the girl.

MARION COBBLER STICKS TO LAST FOR 53 YEARS

Andrew Steinmetz Still Pegs Shoes After More Than Half Century.

Of the "old school" of cobblers in Marion who still believe in the old-fashioned way of making shoes, Andrew Steinmetz is the last of his kind. He has been in the shoe business for 53 years, and his shop here, just as he was when he started, is still the same. He is 75 years old, and his hands are still as steady as when he was a boy. He has a satisfied customer with him at all times, and he is known for his soft corns. He has a special method of stitching his shoes, and he is known for his soft corns. He has a special method of stitching his shoes, and he is known for his soft corns.

causes his muscles to ache after a particularly hard day.

The foundation of Andy's career as a cobbler was laid in the hard school of apprenticeship. For a year he wrestled with the awl, the cobbler's hammer and heavy black thread bound to hog-bristle needles before his occupation began paying him returns.

He first began work as a cobbler at Attica where he labored nine years. For six years after that he worked in a shoe factory at Tiffin, moving from that city to Marion. For 38 years he has worked for Marionites, most of the time in his present location in the South Main street store of Smart & Waddell.

He is not only the last old cobbler in Marion to adhere to teachings of his apprenticeship despite the many and varied improvements in shoe repairing equipment in the last 10 years, but is the last shoe repairman to retain his identity with a shoe store. Practically all shoe repair shops are now separate businesses, whereas every shoe store had its own cobbler 20 years ago.

Cobbler For President
Andy won the favor of President Harding before Mr. Harding became the nation's chief executive. Moving into the White House did not cause the President to forget where to have his shoes repaired. When any half soles were needed at the White House, Andy put them on.

He was born in Seneca county Dec. 3, 1855, the son of Martin Steinmetz who went to school with former President McKinley at Canton. Andy chose shoe making and repairing for his life's work because of the crippled condition of his limbs.

When the day's work at the store is done, Andy goes to his home where he loves to spend spare moments working in the garden or beautifying the lawn. He married Mrs. Mary Steinmetz 46 years ago. They are the parents of two sons, Albert and John, and a daughter, Elizabeth.

Thanks to moderate habits, Andy's health has enabled him to spend all but two working days at his shop in the 53 years he has done shoe work.

Sea water brought in tank cars 1,000 miles and cooled by melting 500 tons of ice a day and light treated by ultraviolet rays will be supplied to fish in Chicago's new aquarium.

Remarkable Similarity of Twins Helps in Earning Way at O.S.U.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—The Deimlein twins, Mari and Rosina, are so identically alike that they have found a ready source of income to help them through Ohio State university. The girls, daughters of a Columbus jeweler, not only are strikingly alike physically, but recent tests revealed their psychological reactions to be unusually similar.

In school, they always have taken the same work, been in the same grade and taken part in the same activities. They swim with the same stroke, and to each cherry pie a la mode is the ultra in dessert morsels. There is an eighth of an inch difference in their height but they weigh the same. Both are juniors in the university college of commerce, but this year, for the first time, there is a difference in their aims. Mari will prepare herself for a career of personnel management, while Rosina will cultivate her talents as a commercial artist. The girls find it easy to secure extra work as models for department stores.

What is described as the world's longest motor route for tourists has been established between the head of navigation for Nile river steamers and Cape Town, South Africa.

CARRIES ON TAX REFORM DRIVE

Miami University Professor
Advocates Change in Ohio
System.

By The Associated Press.
OXFORD, O., March 27 — Dr. Edwin S. Todd, of the Miami university faculty, is militantly determined that there shall be a reform in the tax system in Ohio.

So militant is he in fact, that, though advanced in years, he has taken his fight into every nook and corner of southwestern Ohio, addressing meetings of taxpayers, expounding the theory of sound taxation, exposing what he terms the evils and inequalities of the present laws, and proposing a "sound and workable" system which he hopes the state will soon adopt.

Dr. Todd is a professor of economics at Miami. He long has studied the intricacies of the tax situation. He has taught at Miami for 25 years and is thought by many to know as much about taxes as any man in Ohio. He was a non-partisan member of former Governor Cooper's tax commission.

Two Plans Indicated

Dr. Todd says there are two general approaches to the tax question. "The first and commonest," he declared, "is that of the citizen who doesn't care what the tax system is as long as he is permitted to escape with a minimum of taxes. The discussion of taxes by such citizens consists largely of carefully wrought reasons why taxes are most justly and properly levied on every kind of wealth and income but his own."

"Our tax laws in the past," he continued, "have been framed largely from this angle. It has been a search for the goose that will stand the most plucking with the least squawking. The result of that method is a tax system notable for injustice and inefficiency," he asserted.

The second approach mentioned by Dr. Todd is that of the student of taxation who seeks to find what forms of taxation will produce the most revenue with the least injustice to individuals and the least harm to industry.

His Idea on Revision

"I have used the latter approach," he said, "and I have begun to reach conclusions. It has been the common assumption that what tax revision is for is to find a workable way to tax intangibles. Right off the bat, I would say that we cannot frame a method of taxing intangibles which will produce the desired result."

He suggested the elimination altogether of taxes on intangibles and on stocks of goods, taxes he thinks are ineffective and which, in his opinion, fall finally on the shoulders of those least able to bear them. Instead he would substitute a tax on personal income, together with such special sales taxes and taxes on business enterprises as would make it possible to lift a part of the present load on homes and farms. He suggested also as a possibility, a tax on corporate incomes.

PRESENT PROGRAM

Radnor P. T. A. Group Hears Illustrated Talk on West.

RADNOR, March 27—A program was presented at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers association held in the town hall Monday night. A feature of the meeting was the illustrated talk on "My Trip Through the West" by Dr. F. E. Stengel of Marion.

The program opened with a song, by the members and Miss Pauline Jones entertained with a solo. Another solo by Alexander Kerr and the talk by Dr. Stengel concluded the program.

A number of friends and relatives from Pagetown, Fargo, Marion, Ashley, Norton, Delaware and Waldo came with well-filled baskets and delightfully surprised Mrs. W. J. Miller Sunday at her home east of here.

DEPLORES PURCHASE OF VIRGIN ISLANDS

Pres. Hoover Sees Little Value in Ownership of Caribbean Territory.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 27.—President Hoover today expressed his regret that the United States had purchased the Virgin Islands from Denmark. He said the islands were of little value to the United States and that the purchase was a waste of money.

The president's view of the islands was less hopeful. He said that although the islands were of little value to the United States, they were of great value to the world. He said that the islands were a part of the world's heritage and that they should be preserved for the benefit of all mankind.

Two Marion Men Jump from Fire to Frying Pan.

Almost anybody can jump from the frying pan into the fire, but it isn't everyone that can figuratively jump from the fire into the frying pan. Yet that is what Thomas Earhart and Emmet McGraw, both 31, and giving their addresses as Marion, did last night. Just as a patrolman was about to question them, the men pulled bottles from their pockets and smashed them to bits on the pavement. That got them out of the "fire" of a possible fine of $100 for possession of liquor. But the law this morning placed them in the frying pan by charging them with breaking glass on the city streets. McGraw was arraigned this morning and was fined $10 when he pleaded guilty. Earhart will be arraigned this afternoon.

HEALY, NOTED IRISH STATESMAN, IS DEAD

First Governor General of Free State Passes Away at 75.

By The Associated Press.
DUBLIN, IRISH FREE STATE, March 27.—The Saorstat today mourned Timothy Michael Healy, Irish parliamentarian extraordinary and its first governor general, who died in the night after a three weeks illness. He was 75 years old. The end had been foreseen for several days, although he was ill with what was thought to be only a bad cold for some time before seriousness of his malady, a bronchial affection, was appreciated. As a member of the Saorstat, Healy founded a tradition of his own, the "Irish nights" in which he would sit back with his silk hat tipped over his nose, pretending not to listen to debate, suddenly he would arise, obtain the floor and make a speech of vitriol coated with honeyed Irish words. He withdrew from the house of commons when the free state got its own parliament and became first saorstat governor general serving from 1922 to 1928.

camped on his trail something to talk about today—politics. "Is there a possibility of an exodus of office-holders upon your return to New York?" he was asked. "No," he said. "Were there any reason for an exodus, I surely would have taken place before I left. I know of no reason for dismissing any prominent office-holder in the administration. If you can put the finger on them, point them out and I will kick them out." A. C. Blumenthal, close friend of the mayor who accompanied him from New York, appointed himself spokesman for Walker today and said: "The investigation ordered by the state senate and legislature will do the mayor more good than harm."

More Than Four Million People in U. S. Listed as Migraine Headache Victims

By The Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Md., March 27.—More than four million people in the United States, including a million children, probably are sufferers from migraine, or sick headache, it was declared today before the American College of Physicians. Dr. Ray M. Balyeat of the University of Oklahoma, said about seven per cent of the population suffer from migraine at some time during their lives. He reported the results of studies of 202 cases. Related ailments listed. Migraine is a close relative of hay fever, asthma, and some forms of eczema. People who have had these diseases are more likely to have migraine. Migraine sufferers are highly sensitive to some form of food, Dr. Balyeat explained. Eating that particular food seems to have a constricting effect on small arteries in the cortex of outer layer of the brain, and pain results. Milk, wheat, eggs, nuts, beans and fish all may cause migraine. Treatment consists of finding out what food the patient is sensitive to, and then removing it from his diet. Migraine apparently may be inherited, he said. Brain workers, such as college professors, students and business men seem to be twice as susceptible to migraine as laborers, because they have more highly developed nervous systems. About twice as many women as men have migraine. Start at Early Age. Two-thirds of the cases of migraine apparently start before the age of 20 and about one-third before the age of 15. Many children are fitted with glasses to cure headaches supposed to result from eye strain, when actually they have migraine, Dr. Balyeat declared. Dr. Cyrus S. Sturgis, of Ann Arbor, Mich., reported that eating pig stomach seems to benefit people with pernicious anemia, because it supplies material to the human stomach, the lack of which is responsible for the disease.

CAPTURE OF BURKE ENDS BLOODY TRAIL

Chicago Conceded Prior Claim on Notorious Killer; Wanted by Many.

Richard F. White he beheld the grim visage of Fred Burke. Hunsaker confided with Allan Morrison, realty salesman, and Sheriff L. C. Hoover. The department of justice, to which they appealed, referred them to St. Joe police. Detectives awaited return of Burke from Kansas City, and surrounded the farm house in the dawn of a chilly day. Burke surrendered without a fight.

Long Crime Record. Burke's first crimes were forgeries. His activities expanded. Kidnapings and a jewel robbery in Detroit were charged to him. Bank lootings in Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana were listed against his name. The shots that killed Frankie Uale and Frank Marlowe in New York were echoed in records ascribed to Burke. He was linked tentatively with the slayings of three Detroit gangsters in 1927. He jumped bond while awaiting trial for slaying a Toledo policeman. He declined to pay $5 to a Michigan farmer whose motor car he had damaged, and Policeman Skelly was the victim. Then a quiet Missouri community became acquainted with Richard F. White.

BRIDE HYSTERICAL

Says She Married Burke Thinking Him a Real Estate Man.

By The Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 27.—Bonnie Porter, blonde wife of Fred Burke, was detained by police here today. No charges had been filed against her. She became hysterical at word of her husband's capture, and when told of the crimes with which he is charged. The girl said she met and married Burke, under the name of R. M. White, a little over a year ago. She said he posed as a real estate dealer. "He never told me he had been in jail," she sobbed. "He always seemed to have plenty of money. My folks didn't dream he was a criminal."

Alleged Plotter Blames "Frameup" for Arrest

By International News Service.
AKRON, O., March 27.—"I am the victim of a frameup to wreck the big airship because I am a poor workingman, with no friends." That statement today was accredited to Paul F. Kassay, 37, former mechanic for Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, who is free under bond of $20,000 to await his trial on a charge of criminal syndicalism in connection with an alleged plot to destroy the new navy dirigible, The Akron, now under construction here. Released from jail when 14 Summit county property owners furnished a property bond of $41,600, Kassay spoke at a huge Communist gathering, sponsored by the International Labor Defense, here last night.

Former Bank President Convicted in Cincinnati

By The Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, O., March 27.—J. S. Castellini, former president of the closed Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National bank, was convicted today by a federal jury of violating national banking laws. The jury which received the case late yesterday convicted the former bank president of one count in the second indictment which charged misapplication of the bank's funds. Castellini was tried on two indictments. One contained twenty-five counts of alleged falsifications having been made on the bond and securities ledgers, and the other charged two counts of misapplying funds.

2 MARION MEN HELD IN THEFT OF AUTO

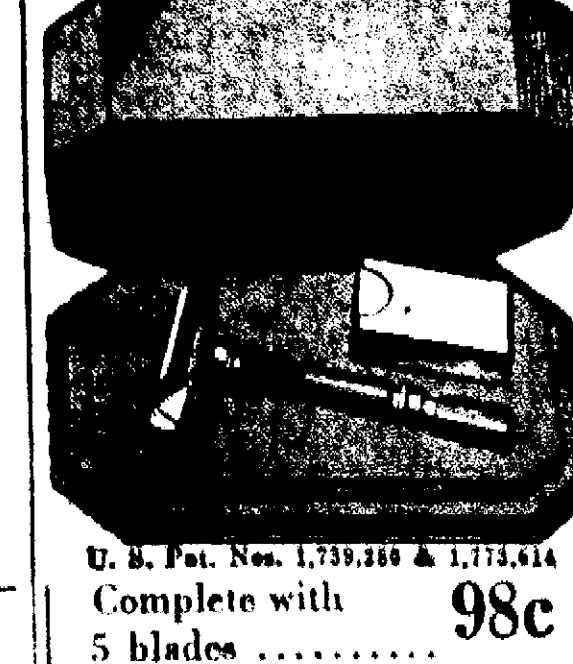

Police Seek To Link Pair with Robberies in Marion, Galion and Mansfield.

Police in several central Ohio cities today were attempting to connect Carl Durche and Samuel Birchen, Marion men now under arrest at Lima, with several thefts and attempted holdups in the last few weeks. Both men yesterday were bound over to the Allen county grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each after they pleaded not guilty to charges of automobile theft. The automobile in their possession belongs to the Lima Cadillac Co., according to police of that city. Officials here and in Galion and Mansfield are attempting to link the men with recent thefts and attempted Kroger store holdups. Authorities today were also attempting to connect George Benson of Marion with the activities of Durche and Birchen. Benson yesterday was arrested as a suspect in Springfield about 10 minutes after a robber had escaped with $500 after holding up a cashier of the Sears-Robuck store.

Somebody has suggested that this country

Another Asteroid Discovered.

From Harvard College observatory comes the announcement of the receipt of news from the Central Astronomical bureau in Copenhagen of the discovery of a rapidly-moving object
in the constellation of Virgo which is taken to be another asteroid similar to Eros, which more closely approaches us than any body in the heavens, out moon excepted.

The discovery was made in Germany, Sunday,
by Schweassmann and Wachmann, of Lundorf, and a third observation was made by Munch in a peculiar asteroid, and all speak of it as "probably a peculiar asteroid" of the thirteenth magnitude. Just what is peculiar about it other than its diminutive size and its very fast motion is not explained. The rapidity of its movement would indicate that it is probably comparatively near the earth.

As the estimate is that there are more than 1,000 asteroids in the otherwise blank space between the planets, Mars and Jupiter, there is nothing particularly thrilling outside astronomical circles about the discovery of another, and this is especially true when the discovery comes so close upon the heels of that of Pluto, which is estimated to be a planet of the size of the earth, and the claimed discovery of a tenth planet in the solar system. But even so, possibly the announcement may be of more than passing interest to some outside astronomical circles who like to keep in touch with astronomical developments although their study of the heavens be only that of dilettante.

"Unrepresentative Government."

On a recent initiative and senators in Columbia could spend a half hour profitably reading
certain remarks made by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler at the University of California a few days ago. They would be more likely to prefer passage of the constitutional amendment proposed by Senator Milton J. Scott to abolish the direct primary in selecting state and district candidates. While the convention system does not lack champions, there are few with the weight of academic authority and the talent of expression enjoyed by Dr. Butler.

The loss of leadership in public life is largely a result of existing electoral devices, he believes. Party leadership and party responsibility have disappeared, an office-holding and office-seeking class with no single thought but the own advantage has sprung up; and the government has become "well-nigh unrepresentative," he notes. And at the bottom of it all—the root of the evil—lies the direct primary.

"This is truly a grave situation," he points
out. "It is the cause of many more of our political difficulties and ineptitudes than we are apt to imagine. So long as the present elec-tional system prevails, and sober and thoughtful public opinion is deprived of the use of discussion and consultation in the choice of candidates for public office, just so long will
this condition continue and probably grow worse. So far from putting government in the hands of the people, this system removes government from the hands of the people about as effectively as any system could. It puts government in the hands of a self-seeking class
which is highly privileged."

But how unfortunate it is that the very political indifference Dr. Butler deplors prevents his deplored from being given the attention it deserves. And how unfortunate, too, that so many who may give it attention will be unwilling to admit how far the political trend
has strayed from the two well-defined paths pointed out by Hamilton and Jefferson, or how deplorable the results are and will become. One can readily imagine the howl that would go up from the professional office-seekers were they to be informed what a body blow has been struck at their smug, public inservitude. "Naturally, the loudest defenders of this system are its products," is Dr.
Butler's anticipatory retort to them. "The direct primary system has elevated aggressive self-seeking and has effectively eliminated the power of public opinion," he comments elsewhere.

Dr. Butler has articulated the convictions of millions who are wondering in alarm, as he is,
where the nation is headed under a political system in which parties are merely formal tags
representing little more than a name. Elihu Root and George W. Norris displaying the same tag; Thomas Heflin and Newton D.
Baker displaying the same tag. There is reason to be alarmed.

"Buy, but Never Sell Real Estate."

The bulk of the family fortune founded early in the nineteenth century by John Gottleib Wendel, of New York City, will go to fourteen hospitals, churches and philanthropic institutions and organizations. Under the terms of the will of the seventy-eight-year-old spinster, Ella Virginia von Ehtzel Wendel, who died in the "Mystery House" on Fifth avenue
last week, the Flower hospital in New York City; the Drew Theological seminary, of Madison, New Jersey; St. Christopher's Home for Crippled Children, Dobbs Ferry, New York;
the New York Society for the Ruptured and Crippled; and the Board of Foreign Missions
of the Methodist Episcopal church for the Nankin Theological seminary at Nankin, China,
will share equally in seven-eighths of the residuary estate, which is estimated to be worth $100,000,000.

The entire estate left by the aged spinster,
who was the last of the family, consists of $4,500,000 in cash and securities and 200 parcels of realty which include some of the most valuable pieces of land under the city's skyscraper. After devising some of the choicest of her properties among a nephew by marriage,
the family lawyer and the latter's daughter
and several old retainers, and remembering
the last-named with monetary bequests as well, she directs that the residuary estate be sold and a trust fund be created which is to go to the fourteen institutions and organizations named by her.

The summer home of the Wendels, the fine
estate at Irvington-on-the-Hudson is willed to Isabel G. Koss, the daughter of the family lawyer mentioned, Miss Koss having been a long-time close friend of the Wendel family,
and to maintain it properly, the testator bequeaths to Miss Koss the property at No. 1, Beaver street on which the office of the Standard Oil company in lower Manhattan is located.

Strange to say, no mention is made of her dog, Toby. It was that Toby might have the golden in connection with the "Mystery House"
that the crumbling brick structure on the $5,000,000 ground it was retained as the family winter residence. It is said, however,
that shortly before her death Miss Wendel
made a verbal request that Miss Koss would care for Toby, so long as he lived.

"Buy, but Never Sell Real Estate" was the motto of the Wendels, and absolute adherence to the family motto resulted in one of the greatest landed estates ever accumulated by a single family. That there is merit in the motto is made evident by the immense estate
this New York family was able to accumulate.
Beginning very modestly, the founder of the fortune bought realty with the rentals from which he from time to time increased his investments, exercising care to buy only such properties as guaranteed good leasehold returns. The Wendel system is not one applicable to the past only. It may profitably be utilized today, and, incidentally, there never was a better time in the history of the country than the present to employ it. What John Gottlieb Wendel and his family did may be done with profit today by those capable of a
like or similar degree of fortitude and judgment in selection.

THE PRESIDENT TO GO "A-SPEECH-MAKING."

Editorial Opinion.

A FULL INVESTIGATION.

Citizens made angry and ashamed by conditions in this city will soon learn the actual extent to which corruption has seeped into its government. The legislative committee, at last authorized, will have full powers of inquiry,
and in Judge Seabury a counsel in whom the whole community has confidence. His experience during the investigation of the magistrates' courts and of the competency of District Attorney Crain has especially qualified him for the broader investigation now to be made. Probably Boss Ward, of Westchester, had other reasons than the assurance that Mr. Seabury would be the committee counsel for changing his position. But it is true,
as the Westchester senators said, that retaining this independent Democrat as counsel for a Republican committee makes it certain that the inquiry will not be conducted in a small partisan spirit. Judge Seabury has insisted upon having a free hand.

Republicans in the state will doubtless expect to gain by whatever is discovered of corruption and mismanagement in this city. The investigation has for months been insistently
demanded by their state chairman, Mr. Macy.
The Democrats in the legislature, through folly or cowardice, have allowed themselves to be placed in the position of obstructing what a powerful public sentiment was demanding. The success of his plan has already strengthened Chairman Macy in his effort to rebuild the Republican party in New York. Many political consequences of the investigation are possible.
But they will be to the benefit of the state.
The investigation is a fierce zeal for participation in the welfare of the state.

So sweeping is the legislative committee's power that the separate moves against the mayor, against the magistrates in other boroughs, against certain city departments, all naturally merge under Mr. Seabury. One of the first witnesses to be called will undoubtedly be Mayor Walker, no matter what further actions may be taken by the governor on the charges against him. Mr. Walker yesterday said
what he has often said before: "Let them
people of New York, proud of their city and determined that it shall not become the apparatus of crooks.—New York Times, March 26

A LANDFARING SEA FIGHTER.

The world war, so far as the American navy
was concerned, refused to go to sea, thereby causing much annoyance to many vigorous seafaring fighters. To be sure, the American sailors came in for some excitement and plenty of risk in guarding the transports. But long after the armistice it ranked many a job to be told by a returning doughboy that he was only a "deckhand on the Hoboken-Brest ferry."
So the navy's men who didn't get as much
fight as they wanted should remember with respect Rear Admiral Charles Peshall Plunkett,
who took the navy ashore and almost into the enemy's front yard. Plunkett, who died Tuesday at Washington, had forty-eight years of service behind him when he retired in 1923.
The part of it most conspicuous was his organization of the "battleships on wheels."
This was America's answer to the "Big Bertha" which shelled Paris. Admiral Plunkett organized five mobile units, each consisting of a fourteen-inch naval rifle. These guns, the heaviest in the land batteries of the allies,
were placed at strategic points along the front
and dropped many 2,000-pound shells behind the German lines. Some of them hit ammunition dumps, railroad tracks and terminals.
All of them helped to puncture the enemy's morale in the last bloody days of the war, now being described in the current installments of General Pershing's story.

The naval artillerymen proved themselves as capable as their army colleagues. But it took a lot of armistice to get the army red tape
before the staff could get the idea of this landfaring seaman. The late admiral deserves
the title of the navy's leading inland fighter.—

Dinner Stories.

President Roosevelt disliked formality of any kind. St. Louis Strachey relates that on the occasion of his visit to the President, after their talk together, they arrived at a waiting dinner. Here they stood chatting for several minutes, when Mr. Roosevelt presently remarked:

"What are we waiting for?"
For you to go in first."
"Oh," said the President apologetically, "I never can remember that I am not free to behave like a gentleman."

Asylum Patient, to new appointee—"Who are you?"

Appointee—"I am the new superintendent."

Patient—"Oh, it won't take them long to knock that out of you. I was Napoleon when I came here."

The Word of God.

Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust
also in him, and he shall bring it to pass. Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him.—Psalm 37: 5, 7.

Prayer. My confidence resteth in Thee, O Father. Thou wilt bring to pass in my life every good thing.

Prevention of Anthrax.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Anthrax is a disease contracted by persons who are working around infected animals. It may occur while handling or tanning the hides
of these animals, in the sorting of their hair
or wool. It was frequently spoken of as "woolsorter's disease."

The disease is caused by a germ called the "bacillus anthrax." Cattle grazing in pastures
where these germs exist are stricken by the disease. As the disease is most serious in its results,
early attention is important.

In man, of course, the disease is caused by infection. Usually this takes place through the skin. Almost always the condition is associated with an occupation in which there is contact with diseased animals or animal products.

The infection takes place through a hair follicle. In its early stage the trouble appears to be of no more consequence than a simple pimple. In appearance, it seems a mere trifle.
As the disease is most serious in its results,
early attention is important.

In a short time the pimple changes color,
itches and burns. Inspection shows a purple center, an area of reddened skin. It may progress until it resembles an ordinary boil or carbuncle. It differs markedly from those two conditions in that there is very little pain.

The local effect of anthrax is spoken of as a "malignant pustule." As I said, it may resemble a boil or carbuncle, but it differs from them in having a central depression. This is surrounded by vesicles, small blisters. It is painless and does not contain pus.

These infections should receive immediate medical attention. No delay in seeking advice should be permitted. It is imperative that the condition be recognized and treated as soon as possible.

Prevention is always better than cure. That is certainly true as regards anthrax. This is best accomplished by careful disinfection of the hides, hair, bristles and manes before they are given workmen.

Persons handling infected material should be protected by wearing gloves. In addition to this protection of the hands, the rest of the body should be adequately covered.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

WONDERING. Q.—What is the cause of dark circles beneath the eyes?

A.—This may be due to lack of rest, distillation, constipation, etc. If there is any tendency to the latter, correct it by watching your diet and taking plenty of exercise.

C. R. E. Q.—What can be done for scars
due to acne?

A.—See a skin specialist for his advice. If the scars are not too deep, the x-ray is sometimes helpful in making them less noticeable.

E. J. H. Q.—Would a stomach condition
cause incessant coughing?

A.—No. Have an examination to locate the source of irritation and then definite advice
and treatment can be outlined.

S. B. Q.—What causes great irritation in the inner and outer part of my nose? I have been given treatment, but the condition does not improve.

A.—It would be wise to consult a nose specialist. There might be excessive acidity of the system. In that event, general as well as local treatment is needed.

T. R. Q.—What would you advise as to internal bathing in order to correct sluggish elimination?

A.—This form of treatment may be very helpful in some instances, but it should be definitely prescribed and taken under proper medical supervision. Constipation can be overcome by proper diet and regular exercise.

Great Exploration Feat.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The stirring news has recently reached the world of newspapers that Bertram Thomas, an English explorer, had accomplished the arduous task of traversing the Great Southern desert of Arabia. He is the first white man to cross Ruba-el-Khali. The journey took forty-eight days, and was made from Dhoofar to Dohah on El Katar peninsula. Thomas arrived with his small caravan at Dohah on February 21. This small caravan has been hailed by geographers and explorers as the greatest accomplishment in individual exploration in our time.

Bertram Thomas, Orientalist as well as explorer, was particularly well equipped to make this historic journey. During the World War,
he served in the Mesopotamian campaign under Sir Arnold Wilson, former British civil commissioner on the Persian gulf. Five years ago
he began to make preparatory excursions in Oman, Arabia, in anticipation of the great attempt to cross Ruba-el-Khali. Last year he made an extended journey from Dhoofar to the Indian ocean, crossing some 200 miles into the interior. From this experimental tour he derived much knowledge of the interior, in-particular the system of dry water courses
leading toward the remote central sands.

The caravan originally consisted of thirty Arabs and forty camels, commanded by Thomas. In the early stages of the journey, attack from Hadramaut raiders was considered as not unlikely, but once this danger was passed, Thomas gradually decreased the size of the caravan until it numbered only thirteen Arabs and eighteen camels. The early part of the journey lay over the Oara mountains,
rising to the altitude of 3,000 feet—this being familiar as the frankincense country of the Bible From Shisur, southward along the desert's edge for 100 miles, where no water was to be found, lay a country populated only by antelopes, and formerly the habitat of the ostrich, now extinct in that region.

Strange legends of a city unknown to history, the Urban of the prehistoric Addites were encountered. Dimly confirmatory evidence was found in the form of deep depressions, by Thomas in the supposed remains of ancient caravan tracks, pointing to centuries of usage in ancient days. The Bedouins still refer to these legendary city of Urban. This city, if the legend be true, lies buried beneath the sea of sand, a sort of lost Atlantis of the "Unknown Desert."

Strange features of the journey will be described by the explorer in some comprehensive publication. Notable was the singing sands,
a strange noise booming out across the desert
with eerie effect, similar to the sound of a ship's siren, and attributed to the play of the wind among the sand cliffs. Another striking geographical feature was a lake of salt water seven miles long. Part of the region was strewn with shell fossils, and north of the twenty-third parallel, where the altitude is about sea level, there were evidences that the last glacial times. Much wild life was found, region had been beneath the sea, perhaps in both birds and beasts. A beautiful example of protective coloration was shown in the case
of all mammals, including wolves, wildcats
and rats, which were of the color of the surrounding yellow sands of the habitat.—Cincinnati Enquirer, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Bunch-of-Grapes Tavern.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The movement that resulted in the establishment of the first permanent white settlement in Ohio, at Marietta, was organized in the "Bunch of Grapes" tavern in Boston.
Where was that tavern located relative to streets and places in Boston of today?

It stood in King street, at the upper corner of Kilby street. But the King street of that day is now State street. Probably no representation of the historical old place exists today, but it stood near the place where the Boston massacre took place, and the engraving
of that scene, made by Paul Revere, shows
the balcony of that tavern, it is said.

In a recent book on old Boston taverns it is stated that three large bunches of grapes hung above the entrance, made of boards, of course,
and gilded so as to appear globular instead of flat, and the proprietor contrived to have in season the aroma of grapes around the tavern
to attract the attention of passersby.

The tavern is traced back to the year 1712
and may have been in existence much earlier than that. It is said that the first Grand lodge of Masons in America was organized in the "Bunch of Grapes," July 30, 1733, by Henry Price, a Boston tailor, who had secured authority to do this from Lord Montague, then the grand master of England.

When the British evacuated Boston, General Washington was entertained royally one evening at this tavern, and later in the evening the celebration was continued with a bonfire in the street before the tavern, all the royal arms torn from public buildings in the city being brought into the place and burned.

The late E. O. Randall, secretary of the Ohio
Historical society, located the site of the old tavern in 1910, but found a tall business block
there. In a basement room beneath it, however, he found a modest little restaurant, in whose decorative scheme grape vines and clusters were prominent features—possibly the lineal descendant of the old tavern.

EUGENE LYONS, Moscow correspondent of the United Press, will speak on his personal impressions of the Soviet mastermind, Josef Stalin, Friday at 9:45 p. m. over the NBC-WEAF network. This will be Lyons' first public talk since his recent return to America after three years in Moscow.

The story of Premier Benito Mussolini's reception and praise of three American girl musicians, "The Morgan Trio," will be related by Thomas P. Morgan, manager of the United Press bureau, over NBC's WJZ network at 10:45 p. m.

The Morgan trio, now heard regularly over the NBC network, recently toured Europe. Morgan was the first newspaper man to interview Pope Pius XI.

IT'S A FACT—Three NBC artists agree that practice makes perfect. The trio—Andy Sannella, Lou Raderman and Fran Banta—hold rehearsals totaling 10 hours for 30 weekly broadcasts. Such experience, they say, is highly valuable. It keeps them in touch with latest word compositions and instrumental development.

The Week-End program returns to the air Friday in a new series, as before the program will feature Countess Olga Medelago, soprano; Men-About-Town Trio, and Nathaniel Shilkret concert orchestra. It comes over the NBC-WEAF hookup at 10 p. m.

The Stars Say—
For Saturday, March 28

ADVERSE astral conditions this day, which is beset with dangers of many aspects. Personal, physical and business hazards are among the auguries, with much contributory influence from individual tendencies to rash, impulsive and quarrelsome conduct. There may be tenacious obstacles to be surmounted, accompanied by delays and disappointments. Much depends upon personal calmness, restraint and wise government of affairs in hand.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of probable adverse conditions, with frustrations, obstacles, delays as well as actively inimical conditions involving personal as well as business peril. With cool demeanor and self-control these dangers may be circumvented. A child born on this day may need a rigid and enlightened training and discipline in early life to enable it to overcome many obstacles in life and to control its own indulgent, passionate and unkindly disposition.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, O., March 27—Oliver G. Bailey, president of the University of Cincinnati College of Law Alumni association, has named a committee of law school alumni to act as a "guidance group" to aid members of the graduating classes of the university in launching their legal careers. Among members of the committee are two state officials—Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel of Dayton and Howard L. Bevis of Cincinnati, state finance director.

Eastern Colleges Refuse Offer of Money To Inaugurate New Course.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK—With the rejection by Columbia University of a $25,000 bequest for the purpose of checking the modern feminist movement, a refusal which followed those of Harvard and Princeton, there remains only Yale University to decide officially on the question of accepting the money.

The bequest was left by the late Albert E. Pillsbury, lawyer, banker and author of several books, whose home was in Boston, Mass. He left the money for "developing sound public opinion and action" against the modernist feminist movement, which "tends to take women out of the home."

The sum was to provide an income to be applied by a lecturership or in such other manner as the college authorities from time to time deem most effective toward developing sound public opinion on this subject.

Entire Barber Shop
Force Is Feminine

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., March 27—Next! But this time it's a feminine voice that greets you as you happen to drop into the spotless little barber shop on the East Side here.

The only men in this little shop are the customers. Nor is it just like all other barber shops. There's a trifle more color. The three chairs are painted an attractive burnt orange and green, and the three neat barbettes wear costumes to carry out the scheme.

The three attractive tonsorial artists are Misses Grace, Betty and May Gibson, sisters and natives of Morgantown, W. Va. The former, a licensed hairdresser, is the general manager. She caters to the feminine patrons, while her sisters wield the shears and razors over the heads and faces of men customers.

Mrs. Lloyd Greenfield and Daughters Figure in Mishap.

Special to The Star. MT. GILEAD, March 27.—Mrs. Lloyd Greenfield of Edison is suffering from concussion of the brain and bruises and her two daughters Miss Gertrude Greenfield and Miss Alice Greenfield also of Edison sustained injuries in an automobile collision in which three cars figured on Route 61, about 7:30 p. m. yesterday.

Three men, occupants of the other cars were thrown from their machines and escaped injury.

Miss Gertrude Greenfield, who was driving the Buick sedan, in which her mother and sisters were riding, sustained a severe cut on her forehead as the result of having her glasses broken in the crash, and Miss Alice Greenfield received a broken bone in her left hand. Mary Catherine Greenfield, who was riding in the rear seat of the car with her mother and sister, escaped without injury. None of the occupants were thrown from the car. Names of occupants of the other cars were not learned. All three of the cars which ran into a ditch were badly damaged.

Land in Ditch

The accident occurred about half a mile east of St. James as Mrs. Greenfield and her daughters were enroute to Galion. According to the report given of the accident, the Greenfield car collided with a Hudson coupe which was coming from Galion, when the latter attempted to pass a Ford. The coupe is said to have hit the Ford causing it to swing out into the road. All three cars went into a ditch.

Mrs. Greenfield was taken to the home of A. E. Garberick where she was given medical attention and later removed to her home in the Craven ambulance.

Anemic, skinny people need no longer be worried. Both men and women can put red blood and pep into their veins, add flesh. Men become robust and forceful without spending all their time in exercise. Women gain those curves so necessary for 1931's fashion decree. The L. S. THE FACTS show that European countries do not love each other as they should. Germany and Austria, crippled by war, planned a trading arrangement to help both. But other countries don't want Germany and Austria to recover from their wounds.

So the French chamber of deputies suggests a trade agreement among other European countries, shutting out Germany and Austria, boycotting them. Secretary of State Stimson conducts an investigation to learn if Americans would require protection should Europeans arrange an exclusive trading agreement. America will require protection if it does not keep out of Europe's affairs and attend to its own.

JUDGE ASSIGNS CASES FOR TRIAL

Morrow County Official Meets with Bar Today.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, March 27.—All members of the Morrow county bar with cases pending in the common pleas court of Judge W. P. Vaughan were called in by Judge Vaughan today for assignment of the cases for trial. The court will be in session for an indefinite period beginning Monday, April 6.

A ruling on the motion of O. C. Romans for a new trial will be made before April by Judge Vaughan. Romans was convicted by a jury in the common pleas court on an indictment charging the embezzlement of $5750 of the funds of the Morrow County Farmers Mutual Insurance Co. of Cardington. He was the secretary and treasurer of the company for four years previous to Sept. 1930.

Both civil and criminal cases will be assigned for trial beginning April 6. There is a possibility that Mrs. Blanche Rhineberger, former bookkeeper in the Citizens' Bank of Cardington, will be brought to trial on an indictment charging her with issuing an illegal certificate of deposit for $250 while employed in the bank. She was acquitted on an embezzlement charge last week here. Prosecuting Attorney Fannie Myers has not yet requested that the case be assigned for trial.

OHIO WHEAT ACREAGE TO REMAIN NORMAL

Farm Bureau Economist Says State Yield Will Be Near Average.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—Ohio wheat acreage will remain normal this year, despite the fact that other wheat growing centers of the United States will show a 14.7 per cent decrease, it was announced today by C. J. West, agricultural economist for the Ohio Farm Bureau.

The normal planting of wheat by Ohio farmers will not cause overproduction or build up a further surplus in wheat. West stated, because Ohio wheat is only a small part of the national crop.

He explained that farmers of this state plant wheat as a "nurse crop" for the hay crop since rye and barley do not fill this need adequately. Wheat usually follows corn in a field under the Ohio crop rotation scheme. According to West, the farmer often is willing to take a loss on his wheat in order to have the ground in good shape for the hay crop.

Ohio produces much soft winter wheat, the kind used in making fine pastry flour.

Defense Concludes Case in Portland, Ore., Trial

By International News Service.

HILLSBORO, Ore., March 27.—Defense attorneys rested in final arguments today their hope of clearing Nelson C. Bowles, Portland capitalist, and his former secretary, Irma G. Loucks, of the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Bowles.

William G. Hare, attorney for Bowles sought to convince the jury serious faults existed in the circumstantial murder evidence presented by the state.

District Attorney Lotus L. Langley yesterday advanced the theory Miss Loucks held the young and prominent matron while Bowles plunged a broad knife into her breast in Miss Loucks' apartment last November 12, as the climax of a love affair.

STATUS OF TAX BILL UNCERTAIN

Proposal To Cancel Penalties May Go Back to House for Changes.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—The status of the De Armond-Clark bill to cancel penalties and interest was uncertain today with reports that the senate would return the measure to the house for changes.

The house yesterday rejected a measure of Representative W. W. Trumbull, Republican of Trumbull county, proposing the bill be brought back from the senate and passed upon by the lower branch again.

At the same time the senate concurred in house amendments fixing the deadline for payment of the delinquent taxes at Sept. 1, 1931. Reports were circulated in the senate however, that it planned to vacate its concurrence and ask the house to make corrections.

The controversy arose Wednesday when the house approved an emergency clause to the bill and then failed to give the bill a two-thirds vote with the emergency clause attached. Speaker Arthur Hamilton, however, ruled that the bill had passed without the emergency clause although the house previously had decided to attach the provision by a two-thirds vote.

At the same time the house voted down decisively a bill of Representative W. M. Goodwin, Democrat of Hamilton, which provided the state and political subdivisions share the cost with railroads on projects for erection of flasher danger signals. The railroads now are required to pay the entire cost. The bill precipitated an hour of debate.

Police today are investigating two burglaries last night and Wednesday night in which $80 in money and more than $25 worth of merchandise was taken.

Burglars last night obtained $40 in money, a quantity of tobacco, and silk hosiery valued at $25 at the R. W. Williams grocery at 812 Bennett street. Entrance to the store was gained through a rear window.

Police report the Texaco station at Greenwood and Center streets was burglarized of $50 sometime Wednesday night or Thursday morning. A glass was broken by the burglars to gain entrance.

This has been worked out in connection with his regular theme "Down the River of Golden Dreams." Mr. Weber will present a musical playette "A Breath of Spring" and will be assisted by Miss Veronica Kelley, vocalist and Miss Maryon Helmar, pianist.
